Wynne leads Liberals to majority

Wynne-win. PC Leader Tim Hudak cuts own job in defeat, NDP reel from big political loss

The Ontario Liberals won a majority Thursday, making Kathleen Wynne the province's first elected female premier and Canada's first elected openly gay premier.

It is the Liberals' fourth consecutive win and was accomplished despite enduring accusations of corruption the entire campaign.

After failing to convince enough voters, Tim Hudak, who led the Progressive Conservatives since 2009, announced he will resign.

At the Liberals' party in downtown Toronto, Wynne said the victory proved that Ontarians don't live with prejudice in their hearts.

"I am so proud to be the first woman elected premier..." she said before getting drowned out by cheers.

"You voted for jobs; you voted for growth. Thank you for voting to build Ontario up," she said. "Elections aside, we live in one Ontario and our job is to build this province up for every single person."

With the battle won, the government will re-introduce the defeated budget, which promises a $29-billion-over-10-years transit and transportation fund and an Ontario Retirement Pension Plan beginning in 2017.

Wynne congratulated Hudak on "a hard-fought campaign" and thanked him for his service to the province.

Hudak's resignation comes after he spent the campaign branding the Liberals as irresponsible with the public purse and trying to convince voters he was the only leader unafraid to do what had to be done to save the province from economic despair.

"I will lead our party and our caucus only until a new leader is selected. But I will do so knowing the Ontario PC party remains strong," he said in his speech in Grimsby.

"Nobody should mistake this result as an endorsement of the status quo," Hudak said, adding that Wynne had campaigned on change and she "will be held accountable if she does not deliver."

Andrea Horwath's New Democratic Party suffered a major political loss. The NDP had caused the government to fall by not supporting its budget, after having propped up the minority Liberals for three years.

Now the NDP will sit as the third party in a majority government.

"New Democrats are fighters and will continue to keep fighting for the things that matter most: the families of Ontario," Horwath said.

The Green Party failed in its mission to elect its first MPP and won about five per cent of the popular vote, down from its all-time high, eight per cent, in 2007.

As of press time, the Liberals had been elected or were leading in 59 ridings, up from 48; the Tories in 27, down from 37; and the NDP had held steady with 21 seats.

Ottawa voters stick to

SEAN MCKIBBON

Meet the new MPPs, same as the old MPPs — for the most part.

Even in Ottawa-Orléans, where there was no incumbent in the race, Ottawa voters stuck to the parties they voted for in 2011.

Former Liberal cabinet minister and Ottawa Mayor Jim

Watson's enthusiasm for the result of a majority Liberal win oozed out his congratulatory note sent to media Thursday night.

"I would like to congratulate Premier Kathleen Wynne on her re-election. I look forward to a continued partnership with her government on key Ottawa priorities such as cleaning up the Ottawa River and extending light rail transit farther east, west and south," said Watson in an email. He also noted Liberal Leader Kathleen Wynne's support for the Ottawa River Action Plan and phase two of the city's LRT plan.

The city's quest for provincial funding for a second phase of light rail proved a stumbling block for Progressive Conservative Leader Tim Hudak, who first told media the province couldn't afford it and then found himself coming back to the nation's capital to do damage control and explain he supported the idea of helping fund it, but only after the province's finances were in order.

"The days ahead in Ontario are going to be difficult," declared a victorious but subdued
Progressive Conservative Lisa MacLeod Thursday night in Manotick as the Ontario Liberal majority sunk in.

The only urban PC MPP elected in Ottawa, MacLeod found herself fielding media questions about a potential leadership bid following a second defeat for PC Leader Hudak.

MacLeod has been both vocal and visible in keeping the cancelled gas-plant issue front and centre during the long election campaign, appearing in front of Queen's Park to draw attention to the scandal. In fact, premier-elect Kathleen Wynne is in the process of suing MacLeod for libel over remarks linking her to an OPP investigation of the premier's office over deletion of government documents.

Speaking to a media scrum
she said she was disappointed with the results after hearing so much anger door to door and really believed in the One Million Jobs program.

"We'll allow Tim to make his own decisions," she said prior to Hudak announcing he would resign. "I will support him whatever he decides."

Landslide win for Chiarelli

Ottawa West-Nepean.

Bob Chiarelli added four more years to the Liberal stronghold in Ottawa West-Nepean Thursday night, winning more than 15,000 votes to win his second term as MPP in the urban riding.

Liberals have held the riding since 2003 when now Ottawa Mayor Jim Watson beat out the Progressive Conservatives' Gary Guzzo.

The incumbent went up early and gained steam throughout the night, turning what was expected to be a close race into a rout. It was a good day for Liberals, as Premier Kathleen Wynne's government won a majority.

Chiarelli was all smiles as he joined a crowd of supporters at Tailgators Pub following the results Thursday.

"You are my priority, you will stay my priority and I will work as hard as I can to deliver for you," he said to the roaring crowd.

"We have delivered a lot over the last four years ... in terms of health-care expansion in the riding, helping Algonquin College become a better college.... I am recommitting myself to the people of Ottawa

West-Nepean."

Progressive Conservative candidate Randall Denley came in second place with more than 11,000 votes while the NDP's Alex Cullen pulled in more than 5,000 votes for third place. Cullen said that despite losing to Chiarelli, he was happy that his party's vote increased from the last election.

"We came into the campaign thinking it was a three-way race and the vote didn't prove, but obviously the strength of the Liberal campaign meant that people chose the incumbent," said Cullen.

"It's good for us, we are building, there will be another election." The NDP candidate wouldn't say if he would run again.

Grits hold Ottawa South

In what looked like a shaky Liberal hold on Ottawa South, voters overwhelmingly elected to keep the riding red on Thursday night.

At press time, John Fraser won with a 50 per cent share of votes, with Tory contender Matt Young coming in second with 30 per cent of the votes counted.

"How many people can say they've won two elections in 10 months?" said Fraser, before a full bar of cheering supporters at Hometown Sports Bar on Bank Street.

"They have chosen progress in their schools. They have chosen progress in their hospitals. They have chosen progress for our economy and jobs for young people," said.

Young, a former sales manager at a multinational industrial firm and father of two kids, campaigned on lower taxes and scaled-back hydro rates.

Meanwhile, NDP contender Bronwyn Funicello placed third with 13 per cent of the vote (4,803) and the Green Party's Matt Lakatos-Hayward came in fourth with 1,661 votes.

"It was an election that was won on fear," said Funicello, adding that Liberals sent out brochures claiming a vote for her was a vote for the PC party. While "disappointed" with the results, Funicello said she was "very proud" with her party's standing.

Transit chair. OC Transpo ridership declines 5.5 per cent due to federal job cuts

Ottawa councillor and transit chair Diane Deans isn't too concerned about the ongoing slip in OC Transpo ridership, which dipped 5.5 per cent over the course of two years from 2011 to 2013 and she credits the decrease to the massive job cuts that came down from the federal government over the last year.

The transit commission chair suggested the cuts are the sole reason ridership numbers have tanked.

"We would rather see the ridership trending up than trending down," she told Metro Thursday, responding to OC Transpo's 2013 annual performance report, released Wednesday. "But we also recognize that one of the major employers in the city of Ottawa is the federal government and we have lost 9,100 jobs in the last year and when you lose that many jobs, that translates immediately into loss of ridership."

Safety. Need more transit cops on OC Transpo: Survey

The American Public Transportation Association (APTA) Peer Review Panel say Ottawa needs to employ more special constables on OC Transpo buses to make riding public transit safer for residents.

The APTA released a report

after spending three days in Ottawa extensively researching the city's safety and security policies and the report suggests that more resources and personnel are needed before the city's LRT project is completed.

LRT detour changes could calm bus traffic on streets

Catherine McKenney worries that the buses being diverted onto Albert Street every day will make it dangerous for neighbourhood kids. TREVOR GREENWAY/METRO

Scott and Albert streets. Residents say sidewalk will still remain unsafe

Proposed changes to the Scott/Albert Street LRT bus detour will take close to 400 buses off the route, but residents of the neighbourhood aren't putting away their protest signs just yet.

Albert Street resident Catherine McKenney, who helped spearhead protests over the detour, says she and other neighbours welcome the 18 per cent reduction of buses, but there are still more than 2,000 buses that will stream by the residential area. She said a recommended chain-link buffer won't do enough to keep pedestrians safe on the narrow sidewalk next to the busy bus lane.

McKenney added she and other residents were hoping for something sturdier, like a concrete barrier. "What a chain-link fence does is prevents pedestrians from moving onto the roadway, it doesn't prevent a vehicle from interacting with pedestrians."

Deputy city manager Nancy Schepers says the new detour design will actually see less traffic in the lane closest to pedestrians, making it safer for neighbours strolling along the busy streets. "Automobiles will not be permitted in the Transit Only lane adjacent to the curb," she wrote in an email.

But McKenney and other neighbours also fear the proposals will be just that: proposals. They worry that when it comes to construction time, the plan could morph back to its original design. Schepers told Metro there will be minor modifications during construction but the design being presented June 16 will be the "final design of the temporary detour roadway."

Mayor declares Men's Mental Health Awareness Day

themensden.ca. Day inspired by online portal for men living with depression

ottawa@metronews.ca

Jean-Francois Claude clearly remembers the moment he realized he was severely depressed.

In 2010, the then 40-year-old federal public servant was working yet another 60-hour week. When he called his children from the office to say good night, his son started crying that he never saw his father.

Minutes later, a shaken Claude was also in tears. Only then did he admit to himself that something was very wrong. The next day, Claude's doctor diagnosed him with a major depression.

That experience of confronting depression, and the stigma that makes it difficult for men to admit they have mental illnesses, sent Claude on a journey he never anticipated, to help himself and other men talk about depression with a new web portal, themensden.ca, an educational network of multimedia resources aimed at men and their loved ones living with depression.

Every year, 840,000 men are affected by depression.

Claude's one-man online crusade has gained so much traction with the readers since its launch in March that Mayor Jim Watson and Coun. Bob Monette met with him to officially declare June 10 Men's Mental Health Awareness Day in Ottawa, to kick off Men's Health Week leading up to Father's Day.

BlackBerry intercepts used in mob crackdown

Project Clemenza.

Police say more than a million messages were analyzed as evidence, leading to arrest of 31 suspected gangsters

Police in Quebec say they used intercepted BlackBerry communications to take down two alleged organized crime groups operating in the province.

The RCMP said Thursday more than one million private messages were intercepted and analyzed as evidence as part of an operation dubbed Project Clemenza.

Officials from the RCMP and Montreal Police said it is the first time this investigative technique has been used on such a large scale in a criminal investigation.

"This is the most important interception of this kind performed as part of a major investigation in North America."

RCMP officer Michel Arcand speaks to reporters at RCMP headquarters in Montreal on Thursday, where he answered questions about Project Clemenza, a sweep of alleged organized crime groups in the province. GRAHAM HUGHES/THE CANADIAN PRESS

RCMP Supt. Michel Arcand told a news conference.

"One million messages were intercepted between 2010 and 2012 (and) the investigation also included a complex analysis process."

The arrests are aimed at dismantling two cells which police say took over after Operation Colisee seven years ago, an operation aimed at their predecessors.

Police described the cells as linked to Italian-based organized crime in Montreal.

Police said they arrested 31 people in Montreal, Quebec City, Laval and Gatineau.

Islamic militants vow to march to Baghdad

Islamic militants who seized cities and towns vowed Thursday to march on Baghdad to settle old scores, joined by Saddam Hussein-era loyalists and other disaffected Sunnis capitalizing on the government's political paralysis over the biggest threat to Iraq's stability since the U.S. withdrawal.

The militants also declared they would impose Shariah law in Mosul and other areas they captured.

Three planeloads of Americans were being evacuated from a major Iraqi airbase north of Baghdad, U.S. officials said, and Germany urged its citizens to immediately leave parts of Iraq, including Baghdad.

The UN Security Council met on the crisis, underscoring the growing international alarm over the advances by fighters from the group known as the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Palestinian teen killed by live fire: Autopsy 17-year-olds.

Israeli military denies use of ammunition, and insists they used rubber-coated pellets

Preliminary autopsy findings show that a Palestinian teen killed during a lull in a West Bank confrontation between stone throwers and Israeli troops was shot dead by live ammunition, two human rights groups said Thursday.

The Israeli military has denied use of live ammunition in the May 15 incident, insisting troops only used rubber-coated steel pellets, a standard means of crowd control. Troops are only permitted to use live ammunition in life-threatening situations.

Two 17-year-old teens, Nadim Nawara and Mohammed Salameh, were killed that day, during intermittent confrontations between several dozen Palestinian stone throwers and Israeli troops on the outskirts of the West Bank town

The teens were killed in the same spot but more than an hour apart.

Their deaths drew worldwide attention in part because their final moments were captured by security cameras. In each case, the footage showed the teen walking in the street, a few metres from a wall where others were taking cover.

The Israeli human rights group B'Tselem said at the time the teens posed no threat to soldiers, raising "grave suspicions" that they were victims of wilful shootings.

At least six people were killed and 29 more injured in an explosion and a subsequent gas pipeline leak on Thursday at a government-run steel plant in central India, a plant spokesman said.

The accident happened in Bhilai steel plant in Chhattisgarh state, 35 kilometres west of Raipur, the state capital.

Twenty workers were hospitalized, six of them with serious injuries, said Vijay Kumar Mehral, a spokesman for the steel plant. Nine workers with minor injuries were allowed to go home. Reports said methane and carbon monoxide had leaked from a pipeline after the explosion. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. drone attacks resume

Missiles from U.S. drones slammed into militant hideouts overnight in northwestern Pakistan, killing 13 suspected insurgents and marking the resumption of the CIA-led program after a nearly six-month break, officials said Thursday.

The strikes were swiftly condemned by the Pakistani government, with the Foreign Ministry saying in a statement that they were a violation of Pakistan's sovereignty and its territorial integrity.

The strikes came just days after a five-hour siege of Pakistan's busiest airport ended with 36 people, including ten militants, killed. It was not clear if the drone strikes were connected to the airport attack.

Canadians have admitted in a recent global survey they are sometimes lax with their online security even though 56 per cent say they have already been a victim of a data breach. iSTOCK

Canadians do little to protect themselves online

Poll. We value our privacy but aren't proactive in preserving it

Canadians are more concerned about their online privacy than many of their global counterparts and yet they're also less likely to take proactive measures to secure their personal information, suggests a new study.

Nearly two-thirds of Canadians polled said they believed they had less privacy online than they did a year ago, according to a report by the IT company EMC, which conducted online surveys with 15,000 web users in 15 countries.

Globally, the average was 59 per cent.

Canadians were the second-least likely to say that they'd be willing to trade some of their privacy for "easier access to information and knowledge," behind only the German-born respondents.

About 85 per cent of the Canadians polled said they believed it will become more difficult to cling onto a safe degree of privacy online in the next five years, versus 81 per cent of all respondents.

But Canadians admitted they could do more to protect themselves on the Internet.

Nearly seven in 10 said they did not regularly change their online passwords, versus the overall average of 62 per cent.

One in three said they didn't worry about changing their privacy settings when joining social networks, which was in line with the global average.

And about four in 10 said they didn't have a password protecting their cellphone from being accessed, compared to 39 per cent of all the respondents.

Woman charged with trying to have family killed

But the person she was talking with over the site was actually her aunt.

Williams admitted to the plot but said she didn't really mean for anyone to be killed. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Surveillance. White House pushing local cops to zip it

The Obama administration has been quietly advising local police not to disclose details about surveillance technology they are using to sweep up basic cellphone data from entire neighbourhoods, The Associated Press has learned.

Citing security reasons, the U.S. has intervened in routine state public-records cases and criminal trials regarding use of the technology. This has resulted in police departments withholding materials or heavily censoring documents in rare instances when they disclose anything about the purchase and use of such powerful equipment.

World Cup revelry matched by rage

Turmoil in host cities.

Black Bloc adherents infect crowd angered by billions spent on sport

Protesters and Brazilian police clashed in São Paulo, Rio de Janeiro and at least three other World Cup cities on Thursday, around the first match of soccer's premier event.

Just after the match started, about 300 protesters marched along Rio's Copacabana beach to denounce lavish spending on a sports tournament in a nation with profound social needs.

The protest was peaceful, but there were worries that could change as adherents to the anarchist "Black Bloc" tactic were seen in the crowd.

Violence did break out elsewhere.

In São Paulo, more than 300 demonstrators gathered along a main highway leading to the stadium. Some tried to block traffic, but police repeatedly pushed them

A few protesters suffered injuries after being hit by rubber bullets, while others choked on tear gas. An Associated Press photographer was injured in the leg after a stun grenade exploded near him. CNN reported on its website that two of its journalists were also injured.

"We're in a country where the money doesn't go to the community, and meanwhile we see all these millions spent on stadiums," said student Tameres Mota, a protester at the São Paulo demonstration.

Meanwhile, about 300 protesters gathered in central Rio de Janeiro; police took a few into custody. In Belo Horizonte, about 200 clashed with police, some smashing doors and windows. About 1,000 gathered in Porto Alegre, with some breaking property and hurling stones, authorities said. Police scattered about 150 protesters in the capital city of Brasília, according to a local newspaper.

Superstars join fight against wartime rape

Ending 'culture of impunity' Brad Pitt joins Angelina Jolie at London summit tackling sexual violence in conflict zones

Brad Pitt joined Angelina Jolie at a London summit on sexual violence Thursday, lending the couple's star power to the campaign to end rape in war zones.

The four-day London conference is organized by British Foreign Secretary William Hague and Jolie, a United Nations special envoy.

They hope representatives of the more than 100 countries present will back a new protocol laying out how sexual violence in conflict zones should be investigated and prosecuted. They say they want to end the "culture of impunity" for wartime sex crimes.

Billed as the biggest-ever summit on the subject, the gathering has drawn diplomats, officials, charity representatives and survivors of wartime rape.

Jolie said the meeting, which ends Friday, was being held "for all the forgotten, hidden survivors who have been made to feel ashamed or been abandoned."

"And for the children of rape — we want the whole world to hear their stories and understand that this injustice cannot be tolerated, and that sorrow and compassion are not enough," she said.

Hague and Jolie have made an odd but effective double act as they've campaigned against sexual violence for the past two years.

N.L. Sealers blame thick ice, blocked markets for drop in landed pelts

The Canadian Sealers Association blames heavy sea ice and trade issues for a big drop in the commercial hunt off Newfoundland this spring.

Executive director Frank Pinhorn says just fewer than 55,000 harp seals were landed compared to 91,000 last year and 69,000 in 2012.

Pinhorn says about 65 boats went out compared to 45 the year before but many had trouble getting through unusually thick sea ice.

He says the number of seals landed was far below the federal quota of 400,000 while the price held steady at about $35 for the best pelts.

The association is calling on Ottawa to more aggressively deal with seal product bans that block access to markets in several countries. THE CANADIAN PRESS

A humpback whale was untangled from lobster fishing gear in the Bay of Fundy earlier this week.

Greene says the group freed the nine-year-old whale from ropes attached to lobster fishing gear.

He says his group has rescued about 26 whales since it started operating in 2002.

Toronto Zoo watches for signs of panda pregnancy

The Toronto Zoo says it's monitoring one of its giant pandas for signs of pregnancy following artificial insemination.

Er Shun, one of the pandas on loan to Canada from China, was artificially inseminated in April, but the zoo says pandas' long gestation period makes it hard to know if it worked. It says staff will only find out about 20 days before Er Shun is set to give birth, and they're preparing her for an ultrasound.

The male panda, Da Mao, is too young for breeding, so sperm was flown in from China for the procedure. THE CANADIAN PRESS

BRAZIL READY TO SAMBA

The wait is over. Brazil kicked off the 2014 FIFA World Cup with a soccer-style Carnival before thousands of dancing yellow-clad fans, who seemed eager to put construction delays and protests behind them. To get you in the game, Metro has you covered with the latest from Brazil.

J-Lo helps World Cup kick off in style

Singers Jennifer Lopez, Pitbull and Claudia Leitte perform during the opening ceremony of the 2014 FIFA World Cup Brazil before the Group A match between Brazil and Croatia at Arena de Sao Paulo on Thursday in Sao Paulo. J-Lo — who turned up for the performance despite earlier reports that she wouldn't be able to attend — rapper Pitbull and pop star Leitte bounced around a giant stage that resembled a peeled melon. They sang the World Cup theme We Are One as Brazilian band Olodum banged drums below, on Brazil's Valentine's Day. Scan the photo with your Metro News app to see a photo gallery of the World Cup opening ceremony in Brazil. KEVIN C. COX/GETTY IMAGES

Will soccer outshine the protests?

The sun rose Thursday on a tropical nation hosting its first World Cup in 64 years. Nearly half the world's population, well over three billion spectators, are expected to watch soccer's premier event and get a glimpse of the country that in two years will host the Summer Olympics.

But just hours before play was to begin, it still wasn't clear which Brazil we would see. Would it be the irreverent nation known for its festive, freewheeling spirit? Or would it be the country that, for the past year, has been a hotbed of fury over poor public services, discontent over a political system widely viewed as corrupt, and deep anger over the $11.5 billion US spent on hosting the World Cup?

"The world is going to see multitudes cheering for soccer — but also demanding that our country change," Helen Santos, a school teacher, said as she walked home in Rio de Janeiro. "The world needs to see that we're a serious country. We're not just a nation of soccer, but a country striving and demanding the government provide better education and health care. The world needs to see the reality of Brazil, not just the sport."

Street protests have lessened in size since last year, when Brazilians staged raucous rallies against the government, overshadowing the Confederations Cup soccer tournament. For two weeks, dozens of places were roiled by unrest. Whether Brazilians have moved past such disruption is uncertain.

"I hope the soccer outshines the protests, but I also know there remains a climate of anger," said Edson Carvalho, an office assistant watching 10 barefoot young men play a pick-up soccer match in Rio's Botafogo neighborhood. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brazil takes cup for sticker shock

What things cost in Brazil

Brazil protects its local industries by charging high tariffs on imported goods.

THE IPHONE 5s COSTS $649 IN THE U.S. BUT HAS A STARTING PRICE OF $1,250 US IN BRAZIL.

A PEPPERONI PIZZA WILL COST YOU $35 IN BRAZIL.

BRAZIL'S $6.28 BIG MAC IS AMONG THE MOST EXPENSIVE IN THE WORLD.

World Cup visitors, welcome to Brazil, land of soccer, sun and sky-high prices.

Unlike nearby Latin American nations where a tourist's U.S. dollar or European Union euro seemingly stretches forever, Brazil is astoundingly expensive.

If one's budget isn't immediately busted by the flight or the hotel, it will soon be done in by the $10 US caipirinha cocktail and the $17 cheeseburger. And those are the prices city-dwelling Brazilians saw even before the World Cup set off a new standard of sticker shock.

The dizzying prices are referred to here as the "Custo Brasil," or "Brazil Cost" — the mixture of high taxes and steep import tariffs, combined with bad infrastructure, a dose of inefficiency

Quoted

"Prices in Rio are absurd. I still like it ... but it's not paradise."

Maria Anda, a Norwegian artist who has lived in Brazil for a year.

Demand leading up to a big event like the World Cup naturally raises prices. But, since costs already were high to begin with, tourists should prepare to dig deeply into their wallets and not be too miffed to receive goods or services of inferior quality, said Rafael Alcadipani, a business administration professor at the Getulio Vargas Foundation, Brazil's top think-tank.

"Anything you buy in Brazil will be more expensive than in the United States or Europe, but the quality is going to be worse," he said.

Hotel rates in many of the World Cup host cities more than doubled ahead of the tournament. Massachusetts-based TripAdvisor reports visitors to Rio will face the highest prices, with hotel rates averaging $445 per night. Even the more affordable host cities will set travellers back a good amount: $457 per day in Cuiaba and $477 in Sao Paulo.

"The Cup prices are ridiculous. Everything shot up. The only thing you can buy in Brazil is a bikini, a cachaca (Brazilian sugar cane liquor) and a pair of Havaianas (sandals)," said Gillian Santos, a Brazilian who now lives in Belgium. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. Supreme Court on Thursday sided with juice maker Pom Wonderful in its long-running false advertising dispute with Coca-Cola. MATT ROURKE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

It's Pom Wonderful news for juice maker

Sweet justice? Top U.S. court rules Pom can go forward with lawsuit alleging competitor's label is misleading

Coca-Cola's version of pomegranate juice is not quite the real thing, and a competitor has another chance to prove it in court.

The U.S. Supreme Court on Thursday sided with juice maker Pom Wonderful in its long-running false advertising dispute with the Coca-Cola Co., a decision that could open the door to more litigation against food makers for deceptive labeling.

The justices ruled 8-0 that Pom can go forward with a lawsuit alleging the label on a "Pomegranate Blueberry" beverage offered by Coke's Minute Maid unit is misleading because 99 per cent of the drink is apple and grape juice.

Lower courts had ruled in favour of Coke because the label conforms to the law and to Food and Drug Administration rules. But the Supreme Court reversed, finding that the juice label may technically comply with FDA rules but may still mislead consumers for different reasons.

Writing for the court, Justice Anthony Kennedy said federal FDA laws and trademark laws complement each other in the regulation of misleading labels. He said it is unlikely Congress intended FDA law to preclude all trademark actions in the food and beverage arena because that would mean "less policing" of misleading labels than in other industries.

Twitter to go without a COO

Twitter's chief operating officer, Ali Rowghani, has resigned from his post and won't be replaced as CEO Dick Costolo seeks more direct involvement with the company's engineering and product teams.

Twitter Inc. said in regulatory filing Thursday that Rowghani's responsibilities will be shifted to other executives. It did not give a reason for his departure. With the shift, Twitter joins other tech companies such as Google, Yahoo, Apple and Netflix that do not have a COO.

Energy. Soon you'll be able to get yourself and your phone a jolt at Starbucks

Soon you may not have to fumble or fight for a power outlet to charge your phone at your neighbourhood Starbucks.

Starbucks and Duracell say they are rolling out Powermat wireless charging devices in stores in San Francisco. The charging spots will expand into other major markets in 2015, and the companies plan to put the devices in all Starbucks and Teavana locations over time.

The companies say stores will have "Powermat Spots," designated areas on tables and counters where customers can put their compatible smartphones and charge them wirelessly.

Most smartphones and devices on the market now are not compatible with the Powermat stations, although some with the built-in capability are starting to emerge, according to IHS, a market researcher. People can also buy Powermat accessories to charge devices that aren't compatible, Starbucks noted.

Poloz predicts 'soft landing' for housing market

Bank of Canada.
Governor Stephen Poloz believes Canadians will avoid a hard crash

Bank of Canada governor Stephen Poloz still believes the housing market is due for a soft landing but warns: Look out if it crashes.

The central banker made the assessment after the release of the latest semi-annual financial system review, a kind of stress test on financial weak spots that suggests a crash in Canada's real estate market would have devastating impact on the economy.

And such a crash could be triggered by a number of events — a recession that causes widespread unemployment, rising interest rates and even global shocks like failures in China's opaque shadow banking system. All such events would dampen growth and cut demand and prices for Canadian resource exports.

Still, Poloz told reporters at a news conference following the release of the report Thursday that he believes the worst won't happen.

"We still are pretty confident ... that we will achieve a soft landing in housing," he said. "It's vulnerable but not risky."

Deputy governor Carolyn Wilkins says data backing the soft landing scenario includes a slowdown in housing starts, cooling in the construction of condos and the plateauing of household debt ratios, although at levels near those that existed prior to the U.S. melt-down in 2008.

CHEAP TRICKS AND OTHER ACTS OF GOD

1 World Cup. You say football; I say soccer. Whatever, it's the biggest sports tournament on Earth, and it finally got underway in Brazil, despite a melee of protests, strikes and various other failures to launch. The Canadian team is chronically unable to qualify for the tournament, so we have to hope for somebody else. This year's favourites are Brazil, Argentina, Germany and Spain, but why not root for Africa's Cameroon, which punches way above its weight, unlike Canada?

2 Dead heat. Another tourney that wasn't resolved before my column-writing deadline was Thursday's Ontario election. Voters seemed underwhelmed by the choices: the Liberals and Kathleen Wynne, the Conservatives and Tim Hudak, and the NDP and Andrea Horwath. Before results were in, pollsters were calling it too close to call. Of course, after blowing both the B.C. and Alberta calls, pollsters have a recent history of being wrong, so maybe they were just hedging their bets. Horwath is the Cameroon of Ontario politics, and her chances seemed about as good.

3 Right, right, you're bloody well right. Speaking of politics, this is what it has come down to in the U.S.: An extreme right-wing Republican, Eric Cantor, who is also the Majority Leader of the House of Representatives, lost the primary, which is basically the nomination, to an even more extreme right wing Tea Party Republican, the appropriately named David Brat, who accused his seven-term rival of not being extreme enough. It worked, at least among the anvil chorus voting for Republican primary in Virginia. "It's a miracle from God!" crowed Brat, revealing that God is registered to vote in Virginia.

4 Another day, another rampage. Hardly a day goes by without another shooting rampage, the latest a protracted gun battle on the usually bucolic seawall along Vancouver's trendy False Creek. Crazy gunmen and mass shootings have become such a common occurrence, we're almost numb. But it took a photo of Danny, the K9 companion of RCMP officer Dave Ross, to bring the tragedy of gun violence home. The photo, of Danny the German shepherd sniffing his master's hat and looking around for him at the funeral, went viral this week, and will continue to haunt us in the days to come.

5 There's always Justin Bieber. It's not quite comic relief, but it will do. Notorious Canadian twit Justin Bieber continues to make the wrong kind of news, this time for getting caught on video using the N word, not once but twice. It doesn't really matter that both incidents happened when he was 14 and 15. His goose is now pretty much cooked and he's barely out of his teens. Fresh out of PR spin, he's turned to God, and was recently baptized in a New York pastor's bathtub. Well, whatever works, but I suspect God is too busy helping the Tea Party Brat to take care of ours.

Nicest potshot ever

Pothole vigilantism goes artsy

The perfect pothole might not exist for many people — but for artist Jim Bacher, it's one with a nice oval shape. Bacher began filling potholes a little more than a year ago, after one in front of his house became a hassle. He doesn't just fill them with cement, though. He's turned pothole-filling into a public art project. He fills them with mosaics. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Public art, practical outcome

While his art isn't a permanent solution to the problem, it's at least a small fix, he says. The city hasn't shut down his project, and some community members have expressed gratitude. Gerry Shaheen says Bacher and his crew are welcome anytime to fill potholes in his city. "I'll pave the way for them," Shaheen said with smirk. "No pun intended." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Designs

- Bacher uses the Chicago city flag design in his pothole art.
- Some versions hold phone numbers to local auto repair shops, while others simply read POTHOLE.
- His most recent installment — #21914 — pokes fun at the huge number of potholes that exist in the city.

Synopsis

The 21 Jump Street high school undercover cops Schmidt and Jenko (Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum) are back, but this time they're narco cops. That is until they botch an investigation into drug lord Ghost's (Peter Stormare) operation. Their failure gets them demoted back to the 22 Jump Street (they moved across the road) program. Jump Street's Captain Dickson (Ice Cube) sends them undercover, as unlikely brothers Brad and Doug McQuaid, to college to arrest the supplier of a drug named WHYPHY (WiFi). The bumbling, but self-confident duo infiltrates the college, but campus life threatens to blow apart their partnership.

Jump Street. Tatum and Hill's second outing as bumbling cops takes self-aware jabs at sequels

Richard: Mark, Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum are producers on the new Jump Street film, which, I guess, explains all the jokes about how much everything cost. At one point Hill actually says, "It's way more expensive for no reason at all." I don't know how much the movie cost to make, but the self-aware jokes did make me laugh even though it is essentially a remake of the first film, with a few more Laurel and Hardy slapstick gags and amped-up explosions.

Mark: Richard, I liked this instalment way more than the previous outing. I loved all the self-referential gags, including the brilliant end-credits that hilariously make fun of the inevitable sequels that will follow. I credit the directors, Phil Lord and Chris Miller, for the knowing pop culture sophistication they brought to the film. They directed the first one, too, but they've grown more confident since their Lego Movie hit, which also tweaked the audience's expectations in a similar way.

RC: The end credit sequence, which maps out the next sequels from number 3 to installment 43 — they go to Beauty School and Magic School among other places of higher learning — is probably the funniest part of the movie. The stuff that comes before is amiable, relying on the Mutt and Jeff chemistry of Hill and Tatum for laughs. It's boisterous and aims to please, but best of all are the self-referential jokes. By clowning around about the difficulty in making the sequel better than the original, they're winking at the audience, acknowledging that this is basically a spoof of Hollywood sequels. It's subversive and meta.

MB: Yep. Because I can see explosions and pratfalls in any "action comedy"; it's the subversive stuff that makes this movie stand apart. The intergender fight sequence between Jonah Hill and Jillian Bell is as subversive a take on sexual politics and "rape culture" that you will ever find. It's these kinds of scenes that kept me laughing through the picture.

Pedro and ligers and tots, oh my!

Gosh! Ten years after cracking us up as Napoleon Dynamite, Jon Heder reflects on the movie that launched his career

Of all the memorable lines in Napoleon Dynamite, the quirky comedy that introduced the world to “ligers” and “Vote for Pedro” T-shirts, there is one that gets hollered at star Jon Heder more than any other.

“Tina, you fat lard, come get some dinner,” says Heder, easily adopting Napoleon’s indignant, breathy voice after all these years.

The line — directed at his grandmother’s pet llama, Tina — perfectly captures the offbeat tone of the 2004 film.

Made for just $400,000, the movie was picked up by Fox Searchlight and Paramount after premiering at the Sundance Film Festival and made $46 million worldwide.

Heder, now 36, celebrated the film’s 10th anniversary this week with other cast members in Los Angeles, where a statue of Napoleon was unveiled on the Fox Studios lot. In a phone interview with The Canadian Press, he said the film’s cult following continues to this day.

“I think people really related to Napoleon, whether they felt like him growing up or knew someone like that,” he said. “Even though it’s kind of over-the-top and funny, he’s trying to get skills, he’s trying to figure out what he’s good at and everyone can relate to that.”

“What are you gonna do today, Napoleon?” “Whatever I feel like I wanna do. Gosh!” THE CANADIAN PRESS

The bizarre comedy set in a rural Idaho town follows Napoleon, a frizzy-haired teenager with a permanent slack-jawed expression, and the unusual characters around him: his shrimpy brother Kip; football-obsessed Uncle Rico; and shy, crafty friend Deb, played by Tina Majorino.

Director Jared Hess took inspiration from his own rural upbringing while writing the film with his wife, Jerusha. His brothers even worked at the chicken farm where Napoleon toils, and the llama actually belonged to his mother — although her real name was Dolly, not Tina.

“After the film screened for the first time at Sundance, my mom came up to me afterwards and said, ‘Well, that was a lot of embarrassing family material,’” said Hess with a laugh.

“The character of Napoleon, especially — I come from a family of six boys and just about everything that is said in the film or happens in the film, my brothers either said or experienced firsthand.”

Hess wrote a short film featuring the Napoleon character about a year and a half before the feature. He was struggling to find the right actor to play the central role, before he remembered Heder from one of his classes at film school.

“I acted out for him the voice and some of the mannerisms of how he was supposed to sound and look, but then Jon took it and ... he just became the character and totally brought him to life,” Hess said.

When Heder read the script for the short film, he said he immediately identified with the Napoleon character because he also grew up in a big family of boys.

“I got it right away,” Heder said. “I knew exactly who that person was because so much of Napoleon was in my younger brothers and in myself. We had very similar experiences. I loved it. I was like, ‘This is genius.’”

Neither expected the film to go on to be a smash hit or attract a cult following that has lasted a decade. Heder, who later appeared in the Will Ferrell comedy Blades of Glory and Kristen Bell romance When in Rome, said that at first he struggled with the spotlight.

“Getting recognized, I got used to it, but it was weird. It changed everything. I’ve forever got this thing — it can be either a cloud or a rainbow — just hovering over you that is the movie Napoleon Dynamite,” he said.

Asked whether he ever gets tired of being so closely associated with one character, Heder said: “I would, if I really didn’t like him.

“But I love the movie. I’m so blessed that it was my first film,” he added. “It’s very close to my heart ... I was kind of moving on with my life (at that time). I got married. I was starting my career, and I couldn’t have asked for a better way to do it.”

Over the years, the film has spurred countless fan tributes — a YouTube search for “Napoleon Dynamite dance” reveals just how many people have dutifully learned and recreated Heder’s improvised boogie to Jamiroquai’s Canned Heat.

But Heder says the strangest fan request he ever received happened while he was speaking at a college several years ago. A fan wanted Heder to recreate a scene where Uncle Rico throws a steak at Napoleon’s head.

“This kid came up with a steak and he wanted me to throw the steak at him as part of a retribution act for what Uncle Rico did to me,” recalled Heder.

“So I got to throw a steak at someone and I nailed him and it felt great,” he said.

“He loved it. Everybody was cheering him on. He felt like a rock star. I felt like a rock star. It was a win-win.”

Why Australia is the perfect setting for a film about post-apocalyptic life

The Rover. Aussie filmmaker takes to his home to film tale about a man out for revenge in a hostile world

Australian filmmaker David Michod made quite a first impression in Hollywood with his 2010 debut, Animal Kingdom, so a lot of eyes were on him as he chose a followup. That choice is now here in the form of The Rover, a simple post-apocalyptic tale about a man (Guy Pearce) out for revenge against the guys who stole his car.

Australia seems to lend itself to these post-apocalyptic settings.

The Rover opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

I love this kind of movie, people stranded in a really inhospitable landscape. And in some ways it doesn't get more inhospitable than Australia largely because 80 per cent of the country is desert and there are so few people out there. It's both epically beautiful and wholly terrifying when you're out there, because you know that only a couple of little things would need to go wrong and you could die. For instance, New Zealand doesn't really have any animals, so there's lots of beautiful stuff to look at, but it also makes it a little bit dull. I realized how much I love roaming in the bush in Australia because of the fact that at any moment something that might kill you could pop out.

Of course, in The Rover it's more the people that might kill you.

In a way, it's a kind of geopolitical inversion of the world in present day, because the world of The Rover in a way sort of exists on the planet today. It just happens to be in super-violent, resource-rich countries like Nigeria or West African states where there still is an infrastructure and official organization, but it's just incredibly cutthroat, and there is violence bubbling under the surface at all times.

There is a sort of sense of anger threaded through this narrative.

I can't remember at what point in the writing process this started to happen, but I started to funnel a lot of my anger and despair into the world of the movie and specifically into Guy's character — anger at the willingness that the people today seem to have to just let the world fall into disrepair solely to service the rampant greed of a very small number of people. You look at the invasion of Iraq on a certain level, and it would seem to me that the only reason that administration embarked on that ludicrous endeavour was to enrich their friends.

Middle-Age Energy Booster

Doctors on the Dr. Oz TV Show said that the most frequent complaint they get is "Being Very Tired", some call it fatigue. They have no energy or interest to do anything. More food is not the answer. Drugs are not the answer either as the Johns Hopkins Medical School puts it: "The fact is, all medicines, whether OTC or prescription, carry some risk". It needs a "key" to rejuvenate your own natural systems that fell asleep. Bell provides that key with: Selenium, spermine and spermidine, which are polyamines found in radishes, cucumbers and oats as well as all human cells. Nothing could be more natural than topping off that supply. There is no risk. The Wayne State University researched these ingredients for years and Bell guarantees your satisfaction. It is all right to be skeptical and for that reason we show a few results below and have hundreds more, if you go on our website under #7 Erosyn, which has exactly the same ingredients. This rejuvenation means that most men and women may have youthful feelings again for their partner. Those who want it can resume their intimate relationship. We supply the proof that it works. If incontinence plays a role: McMaster University says that 65% of middle-aged women suffer with incontinence and this is the main reason why many withdraw from intimacy. This can be overcome within days by drinking the Bell Bladder Control Tea #4b available in the same stores as Middle-Age Energy Booster. No more rushing to the bathroom and no padding or diapers needed anymore. Many people wrote we changed their lives.

■ Bell Middle Age Energy Booster changed our lives. All I can say is am very satisfied and so is my lovely wife. I am so happy I have my youthful energy back. My wife thanks you too. Raoul Martin, 52, Woodstock, ON ■ I should have started using Bell Middle-Age Energy Booster years ago, when I noticed things were starting to slack off. The results were much better than I ever hoped for. David Buckley, 42, Peterborough, ON ■ Being in my forties I felt a loss of energy and zest for life. I have tried every product on the market. This Bell Middle-Age Energy Booster is the best preparation for aging people. A. J. Carisse, 44, Fredericton, NB

'Just an honest person.' The neo-soul singing Brit recently opened up about his sexuality in a talk with Fader magazine

Emotive British neo-soul singer Sam Smith recently opened up about his sexuality in an interview with Fader magazine, sending minor ripples through the broad pool of music press on both sides of the Atlantic.

As Smith prepares to release his spine-tingling debut, In the Lonely Hour, in North America this Tuesday, he acknowledges that he watched to see how his comment — that the album's lovedrunk gut-punches were inspired by a guy he fell for last year who didn't return his feelings — would reverberate.

"I don't read album reviews, but I've been reading the stories about my personal life — which is completely fine," the 22-year-old said in a recent telephone interview from London.

"I was expecting it. I said what I said for a reason. And yeah, it's interesting just to read, isn't it? The whole past few years have been interesting, just to see what the world is like sometimes."

And in the hurricane of interviews and coverage, does Smith feel accurately portrayed?

"Oh, one million per cent," he replied. "You're getting my personality spot-on. I am highly emotional and also very loving and caring and I'm just an honest person."

"And I think people are feeling that honesty."

They're certainly feeling some element of Smith's forward-thinking sound, which marries his expressive, opulent vocals to elegantly uncomplicated backdrops, ranging from the dignified piano and strings of Stay With Me to the buoyant electronics of Money on My Mind.

Both those tracks have topped the chart in the U.K. — and his Naughty Boy collaboration La La La breathed the same rarefied air — while Stay With Me has climbed to No. 10 in Canada, too.

"I am highly emotional and also very loving."

Sam Smith, singer

His success at home isn't necessarily surprising — he received both the BBC Sound of 2014 Award as well as the prestigious Brit Awards Critics' Choice trophy — but he's stunned at the quick development of his career stateside, where Brit artists typically face a more arduous path to success.

A goosebumpy choir-aided performance on Saturday Night Live in March certainly helped — Smith, by the way, says host Louis C.K. was "so lovely" — but there's also the fact that Smith draws from predominantly North American influences, citing Etta James, Joni Mitchell and Beyoncé (always Beyoncé) as the artists he listened to most while making his record.

Still, Smith concedes that the attention is a little overwhelming. He's only years removed from attending high school in the sleepy commuter town of Bishop's Stortford. He moved to London at 18 and wrote his debut album two years later while mired in a deep funk.

"(Life) was pretty lonely," he said of first moving to the city. "London's a big place. All my friends were back where I'd grown up in the countryside. And also I fell in love with someone who didn't love me back when I wrote the album — which probably made it easier to write music but harder to live life."

To Smith, unrequited love was largely unexplored territory in pop music.

"I feel like there hasn't been a body of work that's really properly dealt with it head on in a simple pop way or a soulful way," said Smith, who has performances scheduled in Toronto and Vancouver in September.

Woody Harrelson and Matthew McConaughey on True Detective. HBO

Don't get too attached to HBO's True Detective

Nic Pizzolatto. Show's creator says doing the show is such hard work that he can only see it going on for three years max

The creator of HBO's dark and brooding crime drama True Detective says fans of the popular show had better not get too attached over the long term.

"Each season I'm essentially creating a brand-new TV show and it can't have any growing pains like a regular first season. It has to work right out of the box and that's incredibly exhausting," Nic Pizzolatto said in an interview Wednesday at the Banff World Media Festival.

"I'm writing every episode, so I can't imagine I would do this more than three years. I'd like to have a regular TV show with fixed sets and regular actors," he said with a chuckle.

The first season starred Matthew McConaughey and Woody Harrelson, who were both executive producers, as well as Michelle Monaghan, Michael Potts and Tory Kitties. It used multiple time-lines to trace the hunt for a serial killer by two Louisiana State Police Criminal Investigations Division homicide detectives over 17 years.

Pizzolatto said he's written two scripts so far that's he's happy with. But he has a message for people who believe rumours about who will be cast in season 2.

"Not a single rumour about casting that has been printed anywhere has any truth to it whatsoever. I've seen entertainment reporters say 'my sources say' and there are no sources. There's me and two other guys and they don't even know what I'm doing," he said.

"We haven't approached anybody yet. When I get back we're going to be meeting with directors and get the casting process into full gear," said Pizzolatto.

"We have four primary POV (point of view) roles we will really need to focus on and once those are in place we'll know the shooting schedule for sure. Right now we're planning to start in the fall."

The newfound attention and success has been a bit difficult for Pizzolatto, who is notoriously reclusive and does his best to avoid any social media.

"I'm pretty hard to actually get a hold of by design," he said.

"This has all been very new to me and what I've had to do is just find a distance for myself. We got here by me working in a vacuum towards my own vision for better or worse and then not compromising on it," said Pizzolatto.

"I'm not going to allow that sort of speculation to influence the way I work, and at the same time in order to work the way I work I cannot be engaging total strangers on the Internet to explain my work to them. I even kind of think it denigrates the work a little bit." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kendall and Kylie crazy excited for MMVAs

Awards show. 'We just want to have fun with it and do the best we can,' says Kendall about their hosting duties

Fresh off a teleprompter flub at the Billboard Music Awards,

Kendall Jenner says she's relaxing ahead of her upcoming hosting gig with sister Kylie at the Much Music Video Awards.

"We don't want to think too much about it. If we think too much about it, we'll get really nervous and work ourselves up. We're just relaxing and getting excited," she said.

The teenage sisters — reality TV personalities and members of the Kardashian brood — say they have only seen snippets of the show in the past, but are expecting a "big, fun party."

Their first time hosting an awards show comes just weeks after Kendall appeared to misread the teleprompter at the Billboard Music Awards and joked, "I'm the worst reader, you guys."

When asked about the slip, whispering between the sisters and their manager could be heard, before Kendall replied, "Next question. Sorry."

But Kendall, 18, said she and Kylie are excited about the opportunity to host the MMVAs this Sunday.

Asked several questions about what viewers can expect, the sisters wouldn't share many details — urging fans to tune in and find out.

"We just want to make it fun. This is obviously our first time, and we're not perfect, so we just want to have fun with it and do the best we can," said Kendall.

The daughters of Bruce and Kris Jenner, the teens have been appearing on Keeping Up With the Kardashians for years, alongside half sisters Kim, Khloe and Kourtney.

Kendall and Kylie have gone on to walk runways, design a clothing line and write a young-adult science-fiction novel called Rebels: City of Indra with the help of author Maya Sloan.

Both recently attended Kim's wedding to rapper Kanye West in France and Italy, which Kendall described as "truly magical."

"I really enjoyed the fireworks at Versailles. I thought that that was a m a z - i n g and r o - m a n t i c . T h e whole thing was pretty incredible," she said.

Kylie, 16, said her favourite part of the wedding was sultry crooner Lana del Rey's performance. "I really love her," she said.

The younger Jenner also denied rumours she is dating troubled Canadian pop superstar Justin Bieber, who has two MMVA nominations this year but is not listed among the show's performers or presenters.

Asked which artists they're looking forward to seeing, both Kendall and Kylie said 17-year-old New Zealand singer-songwriter Lorde was at the top of their list. "I missed Lorde at Coachella so I really wanted to see her, so I can't wait to see her," said Kylie.

The MMVAs will be held Sunday outside CTV headquarters in downtown Toronto and be simulcast on Much and CTV. Other performers include Hedley, Imagine Dragons, Kiesza, Ariana Grande, Ed Sheeran and the Sam Roberts Band.

Card countin' Affleck gets kicked out of Windsor casino

A day trip to Caesars Windsor turned into a dark night for Ben Affleck last month.

According to Radar Online, the 41-year-old actor took a break from filming Batman v. Superman in Detroit to hit the Canadian casino on May 31. "He sat down and played for roughly 20 minutes before security heard he was there. They made the dealers stop what they were doing and asked him to leave. Ben seemed pretty mad," a source told Radar.

Affleck is a well-known card shark, having been banned from casinos in Las Vegas for counting cards; his reputation appears to have preceded him at Caesars. METRO

Pippa embarks on bike race across this side of the pond

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News in New York City

Next time you're driving in America, glance at the bike lane. Do you see a lovely butt and very shiny hair? You may be sharing the road with a princess-adjacent socialite. Beginning June 15, Pippa Middleton is biking across America.

Pippa and her brother James Middleton are participating in the Race Across America, a cross-country bicycle race from Oceanside, Calif., to Annapolis, Md.

They'll be part of an eight-person relay team with their friend James Matthews, raising money for the foundation named for James' brother Michael Matthews. Michael Matthews passed away at the age of 22 while descending from Mount Everest. The foundation begun in his name raises money for education for poor children around the world. If you want to cheer on the Middletons, I would aim for the nice flat Illinois bit to see her at her best. I imagine the Rockies are terrible for hair shininess.

Justin Bieber

Bieber says I love you, one deleted Instagram photo at a time

Social media is the bane of the fickle heart, as Justin Bieber is proving with his erratic postings pertaining to on-again, off-again girlfriend Selena Gomez.

While it has seemed that the couple had finally split for good in recent months, Bieber doesn't seem so sure.

Just this week, he posted a close-up photo of the two in an embrace with the caption, "Our love is unconditional."

Suggesting a tentative Romeo, he quickly deleted the posting — but not before many of his 16 million Instagram followers screen-grabbed it and re-posted it.

LIQUID ASSETS

Pink is the new white when it comes to casual back deck sipping wine. Rosé has been the warm weather go-to for Europeans for years and Canada is starting to catch up.

Sadly, our opinion of blush wines has been influenced by white zinfandel: a popular, but polarizing, version that's typically confectionary and usually sweet (most rosé is dry). Though pleasant enough, their reputation as a simple tippie for those new to wine hasn't done classic rosé styles any favours.

A rosé's pink hue comes from dark grape skins coming into contact for a short while with the juice. The longer they're together, the darker the wine.

Spain has a history of rosé production using indigenous grape varieties. The Marqués de Cáceres 2013 Rosado ($13.95 - $16.29) is made from tempranillo and its balance of juicy, berry fruit with a refreshing dryness is a benchmark. As well as tasting great, rosé wines are fantastic with food — especially if the dish is eclectic or has an aggressive, dominating flavour.

Expect grate-ness

Grilled Caramelized Onion and Feta Pizza. Don't limit this family favourite to a hot oven. It can easily be made in your backyard

Onions are a bit of a reflex buy for many. Every time these people go to the grocer they always buy a bag of onions. They're a kitchen staples so you must always be about to run out, right? It's a good theory. But if that was the case, you wouldn't currently have 15 pounds of onions on the counter.

That's where this grill-friendly way of using a whole mess of caramelized onions comes in. The pizza is topped with onions and garlic, spiked with caraway seeds and golden raisins, finished with roasted red peppers, pine nuts, and crumbled feta for a kind of Middle Eastern take on grilled pizza

1. Set the pizza crust, in the bag, on the counter to come to room temperature.

2. Meanwhile, in large, heavy pot, such as a cast-iron Dutch oven, over medium heat, melt the butter. Add onions and cook, stirring often, for 20 minutes. Stir in raisins, garlic and caraway seeds, then cook another 3 minutes, or until onions are significantly reduced and caramelized. Stir in the red peppers, then transfer the mixture to a bowl and set aside.

Ingredients

- 20-oz ball purchased pizza crust
- 2 tbsp butter
- 2 medium yellow onions, thinly sliced
- 1/3 cup golden raisins
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tbsp caraway seeds
- 12-oz jar roasted red peppers, drained and sliced
- Olive oil
- 1/3 cup pine nuts
- 1/2 cup crumbled feta cheese

3. When the onions are done, heat the grill to medium-high. On a lightly floured counter, roll the pizza dough out to a 14-inch round. Brush the top of the dough with oil, then transfer it to a large plate or platter for carrying it to the grill. Have your remaining ingredients prepared, then bring everything to the grill.

4. Flip the dough onto the grill, oiled side down, and cook for 5 minutes, or until the bottom is lightly browned and puffed. Reduce the heat to medium-low, then brush the top of the dough with oil. Use tongs to flip the dough.

5. Spread the onion mixture evenly over the crust, then sprinkle it with pine nuts and feta. Cover the grill and cook for 4 to 6 minutes, or until the bottom is lightly browned and the feta is softened. Serve immediately.

Neymar's brace keeps party jumping in Brazil

World Cup. Hosts open tournament with 3-1 win; Croatia shaken by controversial penalty

Neymar gave Brazil a winning start to its home World Cup, scoring twice to lead the host nation to an unconvincing 3-1 victory over Croatia in the opening game on Thursday.

In his 50th match with Brazil, the 22-year-old forward scored a goal in each half to help the hosts survive an early scare and escape disaster in front of a packed Itaquerao Stadium after Croatia had taken an early lead.

Marcelo found his own net while trying to clear a low cross by Ivica Olivic in the 11th minute, but Neymar then showed why the nation's high hopes are all pinned on him.

He equalized in the 29th minute, clearing a defender in midfield before making a run toward the edge of the area and firing a perfectly placed low shot that went in off the post.

The game turned on a controversial penalty awarded by Japanese referee Yuichi Nishimura in the 71st minute when striker Fred went down inside the area under minimal contact from defender Dejan Lovren.

Neymar scored from the spot for his 33rd goal with Brazil. The Barcelona star got a standing ovation when he was substituted near the end of the match.

The Croatians were furious.

"If that was a penalty, we should be playing basketball. Those kinds of fouls are penalized there," Croatia coach Niko Kovac said.

"That is shameful, this is not a World Cup referee. He had one kind of criteria for them and another for us. The rules were not the same," Kovac said.

Cristiano Ronaldo

Portugal star taking precautions

Cristiano Ronaldo cut short a training session with Portugal on Thursday, leaving the field with an ice pack over his left knee — indicating that his tendinitis may still be bothering the star forward.

Ronaldo trained with the rest of the team for about 15-20 minutes doing physical exercises but then did not take part in the rest of the session with full ball drills.

Instead, he stretched on his own and signed a few shirts for fans before going to sit on the bench. When he left, he had an ice pack over his left knee.

Ronaldo has been bothered by left leg injuries ahead of the World Cup, and was sidelined for two weeks with tendinitis in the knee and a thigh problem.

However, Portugal midfielder Joao Moutinho said there was nothing to worry about concerning Ronaldo's health.

"Ever since he started to train with us he has been 100 per cent like the rest of us," Moutinho said. "Everything is fine with him... The ice is normal after training."

France team doc critical of Ribery's club team

France's Franck Ribery poses for a team picture in Clairefontaine, France, on June 6. FRANCOIS MORI/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

France's team doctor has criticized Bayern Munich for the way the club handled a lingering back injury that ruled star winger Franck Ribery out of the World Cup.

Ribery appeared to have made progress from a chronic lower back injury that had plagued him for weeks, only to be ruled out of the competition last Friday when he pulled up in training. It came just three days before France flew to Brazil, depriving coach Didier Deschamps of his most experienced player and most

"When I examined him and we did tests with the X-ray and scans, I was very reassured. There was no reason why he wouldn't play in the World Cup," France doctor Franck Le Gall said Thursday. "We have some explanations for his pain. However, he didn't find a way ... we didn't find the way for his pains to cease or for him to play through his discomfort."

Ribery, who has scored 16 goals in 81 appearances for France, made his last appearance of the season for Bayern as a substitute in the German Cup final win over Borussia Dortmund on May 17.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The full moon could have you doing things and saying things that will cause problems of a romantic nature. Handle affairs of the heart with a great deal of care over the next 48 hours.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Because today's full moon cuts across a powerful angle of your chart you must be ready for those around you to overreact in some way. On the home front there will be times when logic goes out the window.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
